WIDE SCHEME OF REFORM IS NOW PLANNED

Russian Government Gives Both Sexes Votes For Zemstvos—Other Measures.

PETROGRAD, June 22.—The provisional government continues the promulgation of important reforms. The first concerns the Zemstvos. Henceforth the vote will be enjoyed by both sexes independently of the present provision regarding property. Elections are to be on a system of proportional representation.
M. Skobelev, new minister of labor, has drafted a plan to revise the sickness and insurance act of 1915. This act will be extended to all parts of the empire and embrace a much larger category of employees.
M. Kereny, minister of war, has presented for the government's approval a bill reforming the military jurisdiction.
Regimental court martial will try military offences. Other charges against soldiers will be tried by civil courts.
The government decreed the formation of a special council to consider the possible development of the empire's productive forces and necessary measures in the domain of home and foreign trade.

INCREASE SUPPLY OF BEER.
LONDON, June 22.—According to this morning's newspapers, the Government's reduction in the annual output of beer to 10,000,000 barrels, decreed last February, has proved too drastic. There has been a deficient supply in the munitions areas during the recent hot weather, which condition, added to the prospective difficulty in the rural districts at harvest time, has influenced the Government to allow an increase of 33 per cent. in the barrellage of beer.

MAIZE SECRET DISCOVERED.
NEW YORK, June 22.—The secret of the cultivation of Mandan maize, long held by the Mandan Indians, has been learned by the American Museum of Natural History, and corn of that variety is being grown by the museum. Mandan maize is now being grown in the northwest.

AT BANFF

The Homestead Hotel management sends out the following suggestions to auto owners in Alberta and Saskatchewan, both town and country districts, expecting to visit the Canadian National Park at Banff this summer. You will find the highway leading from Edmonton to Calgary is now officially mapped, and also, the one from Calgary to Banff. The run from Edmonton to Calgary is about 200 miles and is a beautiful, leisurely ride for a day's outing with good accommodations, meals and a trip from Calgary to Banff in an auto through the beautiful city of Calgary is well worth while, and a run in the afternoon of 4 or 5 hours along a magnificent foot-hill and mountain trail will bring you to the important city of Banff, located about the centre of the Canadian National Rocky Mountain Park, where you will be received by the Management of the Homestead Hotel at very reasonable rates and have free garage for your cars while you are our guests. If you have never made a trip from Calgary to Banff, in an auto, you have something indescribably beautiful coming to you. For rates and information please write or Phone 744.

MARCIL CONTINUES HIS PROPAGANDA

"Think Of Music When They Want To Murder The Whole People."

MONTREAL, June 22.—Tancredi Marcil at an anti-conscription meeting held tonight in the Basil hall, in the east end of Montreal, stated: "Hear, Mr. Blondin said that this agitation was nothing, that it was just like the agitation when they hanged Rioli, but let me say that it took all the soldiers in the country to hang Rioli, and think of the music there will be when they want to murder the whole people."
Marcil said the hour was grave and it behooved all to study the speeches made at Ottawa attentively and keep in touch with what was going on, for Canada was going through its most terrible crisis.

NEWS OF DISTRICT

VETERAN.

Bulletin Correspondence.
The farmers of this district are anxiously looking for rain after the long spell of dry weather.

Harb Gray purchased a new car, as he needs two for his extensive livery business.

Mac Sheriff sold his driving outfit last week and is now the proud owner of a new car.

Veteran can now boast twelve motor cars owned by the townspeople and another dozen owned by the farmers, surely a good sign of prosperity.

Rev. Davies turned out to his preaching appointments on Sunday in a brand new top buggy.

Dr. Little is having his house and garage painted.

Our sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, who lost their little daughter on Friday. A service in the home was conducted by Rev. F. E. Davies.

Death also claimed the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wardle, of Hamilton Lake, and the son of Mr. Wardle received news of the death of his father.

Monday, July 2nd, is Veteran's great celebration day. A splendid program is advertised and a brass band will be in attendance. The Red Cross funds will benefit largely if it is a fine day.

Veteran is growing, slow but sure. Hogarth, the druggist, has purchased a lot and is drawing up plans for a new house. Mr. Slough has also purchased a lot and intends to build soon.

The Slough Hardware Co. have opened up a new store and are now building a warehouse to accommodate their goods. We welcome them to town.

Rev. Davies is busy building a new addition to the church barn. The road gangs are busy fixing up the roads north and south of Veteran, but not before they needed it. The farmers appreciate the improved roads and the auto owners can now go for a decent ride. It is hoped the government will continue the good work.

Some fellows on election day were too late to vote. M.L.A. wears a smile that won't come off since his success at the recent election. Veteran is proud of the honor done to one of its own community.

DISCUSS RAID ON U. S.

London, June 22.—Copenhagen despatches quote German newspapers as seriously discussing the possibility of Zepplin raid on American Atlantic seaboard towns. A German aeronautical paper declares that it is possible to send Zepplins to the American coast, keep them there four days, and then have them return.

BANK OF ENGLAND STATEMENT

LONDON, June 21.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes. Total reserve increased £1,216,000. Circulation increased £60,000. Bullion increased £1,277,400. Other securities decreased £2,537,000. Public deposits increased £3,336,000. Notes reserve increased £1,148,000. Government securities increased £25,000. Proportion of bank's reserve to liability this week is 21.27 per cent; last week it was 19.94 per cent. Rate of discount five per cent.

HIGH FINANCE IN HOSPITAL KITCHEN

Head Cook Has Hiring Of Assistants And Profited By Opportunity.

A story of Oriental williness was related to the members of the hospital board on Thursday afternoon, much to their amusement, and they unanimously arrived at the conclusion that the gentleman who presides over the kitchen at the Royal Alex. Hospital, although he may appear "childlike and bland," is surely some exponent of "high finance."

The story cropped up when Dr. A. T. Rutherford reported on his visit to the hospital, when he stated that there was some complaint as to the floor of the kitchen getting too hot.

One of the members remarked that if this was the case the cooks would be giving notice.

Dr. Rutherford: "The cooks say that they can get more money at Hong Kong."

Some of the members looked rather dubious at this statement until they were informed that these three employees in the kitchen were Chinese.

Secretary Leonard said that it was correct, as the cooks stated that they could get more money elsewhere.

There were three employees—the head cook, who had been there seven years, had $75 per month, the next $45 per month and the other $30 per month. The head cook and the third man, whom he believed were brothers, made no complaint, but the second man had done so. The head cook had been in the habit of engaging the other men, as the hospital could not converse with them, and when the trouble came up about the wages the head cook came to him and suggested that he should be paid the $150 and engage and pay all the kitchen help and run the place himself.

Then the members began to smile. "Did you agree?" asked one. "Yes," answered the secretary. "I went to the chairman and obtained consent and then told him that the arrangement would be made. I impressed upon him that if the work was not satisfactory they would all have to go back to China, and that 'But that is not all,' went on Mr. Leonard. 'The next day he went out and obtained a second man at $40 per month.'"

GERMANS SPEED HARVESTING OF ROUMANIAN CROP

Labor Parties Enrolled From Native Population and Prisoners Utilised

Copenhagen, June 22.—The German authorities in Roumania have made every preparation for the most rapid harvesting of the grain crop. In addition to the special military detachments, labor parties have been enrolled from the native population and prisoners of war who have been assigned to do the work.

The harvesters will be paid, according to the announcement in the German papers, higher wages than are customary in peace times, in order to encourage zealous efforts. Premiums are offered Roumanian landlords for speedy deliveries of grain.

WANT SERVICES OF ALIENS USED FOR WAR BURDEN

Veterans in Resolution to Government, Urge "Fight Or Work"

Winnipeg, June 22.—The following resolution was unanimously passed at the meeting last night of the executive council of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada: "That the Dominion government be hereby requested to enforce the immediate enrollment of all aliens from enemies' countries and that if thought inadvisable for military reasons to place them in the firing line, one or more industrial regiments be formed under competent and loyal officers, so that the services of such alien enemies can be promptly utilized in any part of Canada where the shortage of labor makes it necessary; and, moreover, in the event of any such alien enemy neglecting or refusing to obey the call either to fight or work, that he be put to work without any remuneration whatever, and that the proper authorities be requested to provide that all alien enemies should be compelled to bear their full share of the war burden."

EX-CZAR WILL BE PLACED ON TRIAL

Statement by British Labor M. P.'s Who Were Recently in Russia

London, June 22.—Former Emperor Nicholas of Russia will be placed on public trial, according to a statement made by William James Thorne and James O'Grady, labor members of parliament, who were members of the mission sent to Russia by the labor party. They addressed a meeting in London last night at which they said that M. Kerensky, the Russian minister of war, had told them that the trial of the former emperor and a number of reactionaries had been decided upon.

At the trial, Minister Kerensky was quoted as saying, incriminatory documents would be produced proving that a separate peace was planned by the court party. These documents will include one dated March 15.

WELCOME BELGIAN MISSION.

TODAY'S INQUIRIES.

1. How can bureau drawers, which stick, be made to slide smoothly?
2. Is there any way to whiten a garment that has had an overdose of bleaching?
3. What can be substituted for white sugar in pickling?
4. Is it necessary to send a bread-and-butter present after a visit?
5. What kind of exercise will develop the upper arm?
6. Are hose or cotton stockings better for children's wear?

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

1. Bureau drawers which stick can be made to slide easily by first rubbing over the edges with sandpaper, then soaping them.
2. A garment that has had an overdose of bleaching may be whitened by boiling.
3. Brown sugar can be substituted for white in pickling.
4. Although not necessary, it is a graceful thing to do to send a little remembrance of some sort to one's hostess after a visit. But any suggestion of its being in "payment" of the hospitality should be avoided.
5. To develop the upper arm raise the arm, then, elbow and forearm resting on the side of the upper arm tense, also twist the upper arm
a number of times.
6. Cotton stockings are better for children's wear than hose.

To the Editor of the Woman's Page:

Dear Madam—Will you kindly answer the following: When you are given a plate with a whole orange on it and a knife, what is the proper way to peel the orange and eat it?

Thanking you, yours truly,
(Miss) J. FERGUSON.

As it would be impolite and beyond all rules of etiquette to offer a whole orange without being in some way prepared for a guest, it would necessarily follow that it was offered at a very informal time. In that case it could be peeled or scored in sections at the choice of the party who received it and eaten as desired.

To the Editor of Woman's Page:

Dear Madam—Please tell me how to clean feather pillows so they will be free from mites; these pillows have been in the attic for five years. I would appreciate it if you would also tell me how to clean a white velvet corduroy coat which has a pink cor-durey collar and cuffs.

(Mrs.) F. H. DAVIS.

A thorough brushing and sunning is the most effective way of ridding pillows of mites. Select a bright, breezy, sunny day and let the pillows hang in the sun and wind for the whole day.

White corduroy washes beautifully.
I would advise you to rip the collar and cuffs off the coat, washing them separately, so if the color runs at all it will not go into the white. I think better results can be obtained this way than by cleaning by gasoline.

Write Letter of Congratulation

To the Editor of Woman's Page:

Dear Madam—I received a letter from a man I know telling me of his engagement to a girl in another city whom I have never met. What should I do about answering it? Must I write to this strange girl?

ANXIOUS.

Simply write to the man and congratulate him and tell him that you appreciate very much his letting you know and that you are glad to hear you have an opportunity of meeting his fiancée when she visits in this city.
If the man is a very close friend it will be a gracious thing to write to the girl, even if you do not know her.

taken into consideration and that a pupil must be taking an examination in order to compete. The marking was similar to that used by the examiners of both the Toronto College and the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

In the primary grade, Miss Alice Beauchamp received the scholarship, Miss Sybil Harrison in the elementary, and Miss Nora Dunn in the senior grade.

The recital reflected much credit on Miss Crawford's excellent tuition.
The pupils' work was sure and given with a clear touch. The technique was very good. Mrs. MacLean was greeted with a prolonged applause as she made her first appearance since arriving home. Her songs were delightfully rendered and encoursed were demanded. Her next appearance is being looked forward to with much pleasure.

Rev. President Keith, of the Ladies'
College, is coming today to conduct Masonic services next Sunday. He intends spending the week along the Wetaskiwin line in the interest of the College.

Miss H. L. Bowke, directress of the department of music of Alberta Ladies' College, has gone to Regina to visit with her brother there, prior to spending the summer in Minnesota.

Twenty-three students of the Ladies' College are this week writing on the departmental examinations, in grades
VIII, IX, X, and XI.

Miss M. G. Mill, B.A., lady principal of Alberta Ladies' College, is remaining in the city for a few days, resting after the strenuous work of the season. Miss Mill will spend the summer in Vancouver and Pembroke, Ont., and return to the College in September.

Principal Keith reports that two new appointments have recently been made to the staff for the season which opens in September, namely Miss Freda Summerley, B.A., of Winnipeg, and Miss Dorothy Bell, of Tiverton, Ont. Both come highly recommended, and with very fine records of work.

Banana Cake

Bake a sponge cake of a plain cake in two layers. Just before serving put freshly sliced bananas between and on top of the layers of cake. Cover the top thickly with whipped cream and serve at the table in wedge-shaped pieces.

Banana Whip

Press the pulp of three bananas through a ricer, vegetable press or sieve; cook with one-third of a cup of sugar and a tablespoonful of lemon juice until scalded; cool and flavor with a few drops of vanilla or a little orange add also a few grains of salt then beat gradually into a cup of double cream beaten solid with a Dover egg beater. Set aside to become chilled, then serve piled high in small glasses with a sprinkling of fine chipped pistachio nuts on the top. Line the glasses before filling with slices of banana. This makes a particularly good Charlotte russe filling.

Hot Cabinet Pudding With Bananas

Line a quart mold with well-buttered paper; sprinkle the paper with sugar; then dispose slices of banana and Sultana raisins in the bottom of the mold to form a simple design;
cover with a layer of stale sponge cake and cut slices; then fill the mold loosely with alternate layers of bananas and raisins and slices of cake.
Beat three eggs add half a teaspoonful of salt, a half cup of sugar and one pint of cold milk and strain over the fruit and cake in the mold.
Bake nearly an hour, standing on several folds of paper, in hot water.
Serve hot with currant jelly or claret
sauce.

The School of Dental Clinic

(Contributed.)

For some years the members of the dental profession have felt that an organized effort should be put forth in the care of the school children's teeth.

The medical inspector has for some time carried on a card system, where by the parents were urged, at the necessity of sending them to the family dentist. This system has resulted in much good and has worked out very well and in the well-to-do classes. Among the poorer classes, however, it has failed utterly, partly on account of indifference, but chiefly, I think, on account of their inability to pay the regular dental fees. To meet the latter class of cases, in the larger centres, free dental clinics have been established by the school boards.

With the exception of the notice cards sent out by our medical inspector, nothing had been done in Edmonton until the organization of our Edmonton Dental Association in 1912. Early in the life of this organization the matter of caring for the teeth of the poorer children was actively taken up. The medical inspector of schools was consulted. He urged the necessity of immediate action and promised as a start that we carry on the more urgent work in our individual offices. This scheme was tried out for a time, but owing to the lack of appreciation of the patients and their failure to keep appointments, and as there was no organization to check them up, very little was accomplished.

We then decided to bring the matter to the attention of the school board, with the object of securing their help. A committee was appointed for this purpose, about thirty members of the association offering to give one half day each month of their time to the work, on condition that the school board furnish an office with full equipment and employ a nurse.

Next Wednesday

Well Known Choir To Appear
Next Week In First Presbyterian Church.

The choir of All Saints' Church are giving a concert of secular music on Wednesday, July 27th, in the First Presbyterian Church. It is several years since this choir appeared in concert and lovers of choral music will look forward to the coming program with much interest.

The choir at the present time numbers about fifty voices, and its successes at the recent festival, when it carried off the shields for large choirs, male choruses and ladies' choruses, as well as being awarded the Bursar's Cup for the most artistic choral work of the festival will assure some excellent part singing.

The program includes the fine
eight-part setting of "O Canada," which was sung here by the Sheffield Choir, as well as the ever popular "Bells of St. Michael's Tower," and Gardner's lovely setting of "Cargoes."

The soloists include Mr. C. Richardson and Mr. J. J. Walker, both gold medalists of the Alberta Musical Festival.

SISTERS RETURN THANKS.

The Sisters of Providence, Rosary
Hall, thank the very kind friends who contributed so generously to the shower on Tuesday afternoon and evening. The articles donated will be used to furnish and make comfortable the girls' sum-great number of ladies who have shown such interest in this undertaking for the comfort and pleasure of the young girls, and who have,

by their generosity, really made the camp possible, have the very sincere gratitude of the sisters of Rosary Hall.

NORWEGIAN SHIP SUNK.

London, June 22.—The sinking of the Norwegian steamer Cederic, of 1,125 tons, is reported in a despatch from Copenhagen, which credits the announcement to the Norwegian foreign office. The captain and twelve members of the crew are said to be missing.

The Daily Poem

WHEN EGGS GROW CHEAP

When eggs grow cheap, we'll surely make a cake
Some happy afternoon, for early tea,
And what a joyful thrill 'twill give to now

That we may use two eggs, or even three!
How odd 'twill seem to bring to light
once more
The dear old cake-tin with its flat-topped deep
And butter it—Ah, what a stirring time.

When eggs grow cheap, we'll put one in the gems,
And maybe we can boil or poach a few
For breakfast, every morning, if we serve hot with currant jelly or claret
sauce.

And still have some left for a pudding, too!
We shall not be so cross and cranky,
then,
And toss the cook-books in a tum-bled heap
Because they give no sauce to egg-less things.

When eggs grow cheap!

When eggs grow cheap, it will be lovely spring;
(The buttercups will be in bloom
again;
The breeze will bear the scent of hollopotte
And wild sweet-Williams, blowing in the glen;
And we, forgetful of our sordid
cares,
From rim to rim the gurgling
brooks will leap,
So jubilant will be our spirits then,
When eggs grow cheap!

—Harriet Whitney Symonds.

STERNER MEANS NEEDED.

Some speed fiends apparently have not taken seriously the recent warnings issued by the police magistrate and the chief of police. On the contrary, a goodly number of them seem to have either not read the warnings at all or made up their minds to defy the authorities and drive as fast as they please. That, at least, is what they are doing. They should be rounded up, and their licenses taken from them.

EQUALIZATION OR DISCRIMINATION?

Hon. Arthur Meighen is displeased with the member for Edmonton for saying that there would be an equalization of effort in raising recruits for the army. This, the Solicitor-General says, amounts to a demand that Quebec be required to provide its quota in proportion to the other provinces before men are conscripted in Alberta and the other provinces which have supplied the quotas asked from them.

WHY CONSCRIPTION LIMITED?

Selective conscription is not compulsory service. It is compulsory service applied to the military branch only. It does not propose to put the industrial shirker to work, nor to appropriate the spoils of the profiteer.

Selective conscription of recruits for the army is the only fair and reasonable method of getting recruits under a system of compulsory service. But selective conscription of recruits for the army neither fair nor reasonable save association with compulsory service for war work and for the appropriation of excessive profits in war contracts and necessities of life.

It is not a fair proposition that a man should be left free to loaf while another man is conscripted to the battlefield. Neither is it fair that one man should be allowed to amass a fortune by grinding the faces of the dependents and relatives of another man who is conscripted to leave his family at the mercy of the exploiter and go into the trenches.

Men are needed at the front. At food is also needed, in Canada and in England and in France. And munitions are needed at the front quite as really as men. And money is needed quite as really as men. This war cannot be won by men alone. It can be lost on the runs, and in the munition shops, and in the centres of speculation and speculation, as Mr. Bennett did six months ago. Is it reasonable that while we conscript men for the army we should refuse to conscript civilian idlers for war work and productive work, and should leave the profiteers in session of the war funds they've stolen by trickery or misappropriation by extortion?

If the purpose is to put the sole strength of Canada into the war—and Heaven knows it is—selective conscription for the army must be accompanied by industrial conscription if the idlers of the time-wasters, and by measures to recover the "sinews of war" that have been gathered to the private purses of those who have no right to them.

HIS POSITION.

Sir Robert Borden's position is that the public are to be allowed to vote on conscription provided they cannot approve conscription without endorsing him as premier; otherwise they are not.

NO ALTERNATIVE.

An Ottawa dispatch says the Government have despaired of peace between the coal operators and miners in the mountain districts of Alberta, and will take over the mines and operate them as public undertakings. If there is no prospect of a settlement it is to be hoped the government will do so and do it now. Government operation of coal mines in Canada is not an altogether attractive experiment, but as between Government operation of mines and a fuel famine on the prairies next winter there is no room for a choice.

THE CLEAVAGE AT OTTAWA.

The present division between the members at Ottawa is not as to the necessity of conscription; but as to the advisability of applying conscription without giving the people a chance to express their approval or disapproval.

Speaking generally, so far as indicated, the members from Quebec, on both sides of the House, oppose conscription; the members from the other provinces favor conscription. Both sections it is to be supposed represent, or believe they represent, the prevailing trend of opinion among their constituents.

Sir Robert Borden has admitted that the public have a right to be heard on the question, and has consented to give them a chance to be heard on one condition. That condition is that a coalition government be formed with himself at the head of it, and that the coalition government go to the country on the conscription policy. That is, he is willing that a vote should be taken provided the public endorsement of conscription also endorses himself as leader of the government of the country for another term. Whether he will concede the public the privilege of voting on conscription without that condition attached he has not said, though the speech of Sir George Foster seems to mean that he will not.

The amendment proposed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, seconded by the member for Edmonton, is that the question of conscription be separated entirely from the question of party and of personal political fortune, and that it be submitted to the people for a verdict as to the necessity of adopting the measure. If the verdict was approval of conscription the Opposition would be equally bound with the Government to pass the bill and to support its enforcement.

The present issue is not therefore as to conscription, but as to where the question of conscription should be decided. The government, so far as indicated, take the ground that Parliament should "put over" conscription without asking whether the public want it or would even submit to it. The Opposition take the ground that—in view of the situation in Quebec and of dissent in other quarters—it is better to find out first whether the people approve the proposal than to enact it by the mechanical authority of a moribund Parliament and take chances on the consequence when the time comes to enforce it.

Good Expedient

Some time ago, when a local corps was reviewed by Sir Ian Hamilton, one officer was mounted on a horse that had previously distinguished itself in a bakery business. Somebody recognized the horse and shouted, "Baker!" The horse promptly stopped dead, and nothing could urge it on.

The situation was getting painful, when the officer was struck with a brilliant idea, and remarked: "Nothing today, thank you!" The procession then moved on.

When Tommy Came Out of the West

"(Thomas Atkin is deservedly popular in the newly reclaimed territory of France. The inhabitants have made him welcome for their own sake. He comes as their deliverer and remains their friend, and even in a land of shadows for thirty months showed their gratitude and affection for the soldiers who had set them free."—Despatch from Mr. Percival Phillips, Daily Express, special correspondent at the front.)

He came in the light of morning, A strange and unkempt sight, A flat steel tile and a happy smile, A chivalrous, bearded knight. They greeted him with open arms, And gave him of their best, With trembling cheers 'n laughter 'n tears, When Tommy came out of the West.

Though he couldn't catch their lingo, Though they couldn't understand The meaning of 'A hell of a stunt, Just fit to beat the band,' Expressive eyes can tell a tale, And wit can guess the rest— It was 'Cafe au lait' Don't trouble to pay! When Tommy came out of the West, And the children had his rations, And the old men heard his cheer, Of the Huns they'd learnt to fear; And they marvelled at his scoffing tone, His ever ready jest; They knelt to pray to God that day, When Tommy came out of the West. —N. H. Gubbins.

ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Bulletin to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner. To receive attention, every inquiry must bear some name and address of the questioner. This information is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Women Superceding Men.

To the Bulletin: How many women workers are there approximately in Great Britain and to what extent have they superseded men since the war began? W. M., Edmonton.

According to a return made by the employment department of the Board of Trade, women employed in July, 1914, were estimated at 3,219,000, the estimated increase in July, 1916, was 586,000 and in that period 766,000 had replaced males.

Immigration From Germany.

To the Bulletin: What was the rate of immigration from Germany before the war? H. H. C., Edmonton.

Out of 30,000,000 immigrants from Europe in the nineteenth century Germany contributed about 5,000,000, or one-sixth of the whole number. The highest figure attained in one year was that of 1881 (220,000) but the numbers of overseas emigrants for years previous to the war were seldom above 30,000, the figure for 1913 being 25,843.

LEGAL INQUIRIES

Legal questions will be answered in the columns of The Bulletin, after being submitted to The Bulletin's own legal representatives. Write on one side of the paper only. Be brief. Send stamped envelope for reply.

To the Bulletin Legal Dept.: Having

electoral councillor for our local improvement district last January, he was later disqualified by the judge, his position not being lawful. A notice for a nomination of a councillor is now posted, after which, an election is likely to follow.

1. Will the election be made after the 1916 assessment or of 1917?

2. If under the 1917 assessment, will taxes have to be paid before election to entitle a man to a vote?

3. A man who owns two quarters or more, will taxes paid on one quarter entitle him to a vote?

A READER.

1. The act provides that the election be held on the 1st of November, 1917, so that if the assessment roll for 1917 is completed the qualifications of the electors will be determined by the 1917 assessment.

2. Yes, if the tax notice has been sent out more than 60 days before date of election.

3. No.

With the Humorists

Nature Fixed That

Father (impressively)—Do you know, my son, that a single drop of nicotine would quickly kill a rabbit?

Son—Well, father, fixed that, all right, for rabbits don't smoke.

Cynical

He—Here's a woman suing for divorce on the ground that she is a trance when she got married. His Better Half—Well, if the marriage won't bring her out of it, divorce won't.

He Found Out

"I used to worry about what I put into a sermon," said the minister. "Yes?" "But when I found what people discussed was mainly the length of it, I put about fifteen minutes into it and let it go at that."

Too True

"Here's a substance which breaks down when exposed to light," remarked the chemist. "That must be the stuff reputations are made of," observed the politician.

Amateur Gardening

"Planted anything in your garden yet?" "Both rubbers, two pencils and a fountain pen."

Criterion Missing

Billy—Huh! I bet you didn't have a good time at your birthday party yesterday. Willie—Just bet I did. Billy—Then why ain't you sick today?

In No Position to Learn

"What is the latest news?" "I don't know," replied Mr. Meek-ton. "The newspapers are all censored and Henrietta has quit going to teas."—Washington Star.

Another Battle for Democracy

"Willie, you've been fighting again. With whom this time, pray?" "The King boy."

"Why, Willie! what for?" "I just wanted to show him that kings were not running this world any longer."

Guessed Her Height

Gladys—And what is the height of your ambition? Dick (after a careful survey of her)—Well, dearie, I should say that it was about five feet three.

PUBLISHERS' TAXES

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The senate finance committee late today took what the members expect to be final action on publishers' taxes in the war revenue bill, adopting by a vote of 8 to 2 an increase of one-quarter of a cent on a pound on non-class postage rates and an additional levy of 5 per cent upon publishers' net profits over $4,000.

IN HONOR OF GOV.-GENERAL

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 22.—A new town, to be formed by the union and incorporation of the villages of St. Mary and Gibson, near here, will be called Devon, in honor of Canada's Governor-General.

Current Comment

MOBILIZING FOR WAR AT LAST?

From the Ottawa Citizen.

Hon. George P. Graham's resolution in favor of mobilizing the material resources of Canada for national service should help the government to broaden out on conscription.

MORAL STATION NOT ENOUGH.

From the Calgary Herald.

Sir Joseph Flavelle has written a moral suasion letter to Canadian manufacturers in which he asks them to show their loyalty to the war cause even to the extent of their own personal inconvenience in maintaining pleasant relationship with their employees. It is all right as far as it goes, but the head of the munitions board must not bank too heavily on it as a forerunner of future difficulties.

OPPOSE CONSCRIPTION.

From the Calgary News-Telegram.

What's this we hear of Manitoba? In the constituency of Portage la Prairie—in which are the famous Portage plains—peopled by farmers, who have been tilling the soil there for thirty-five years, and where there are few foreigners—a resolution in favor of conscription of men and money at a Grain Growers' political meeting failed to secure sufficient votes to carry. That is rather significant, it says the least. The alleged "traitors" and "aliens" that we hear so much about from the "imperialists" are evidently not all to be found in the province of Alberta. It would seem that some of our so-called "leaders" in Canadian thought and politics are going to get their eyes opened, before long, as to the real sentiment in Canada—a country that, every circumstance considered, has voluntarily performed a greater share in the war than any other nation on earth—either voluntarily or through compulsion.

A POLITICAL PUZZLE.

From the Ottawa Citizen (Southern).

Only a few days ago The Citizen took occasion to confess its bewilderment at the attitude of the partisan press in connection with the coalition proposals. We quoted the opinion of the local government organ, expressed a short time before the coalition negotiations were actually under way, in which the principle was laid down that a war cabinet which contained Sir Wilfrid Laurier or any of several prominent Liberals would be worse than useless; in fact, would be a drawback and a hindrance to the successful prosecution of the war—this being the sole privilege and prerogative of the Conservative party, naturally. We also quoted the opinion of the same journal when the coalition negotiations had fallen through. This is where the puzzling part of the whole business came in. To our surprise we found that the entire blame for the failure of Canada to do its promised part in the war, if it should fail, would be due entirely to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's refusal to join or approve a coalition cabinet. In other words, such a government would have been damned had Sir Wilfrid taken part in it, and in the same breath the opposition leader was damned most vigorously for not assisting in its formation.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

From the Montreal Herald and Telegraph.

In regard to the high cost of living, the following extracts from a discussion on the subject a few days ago in parliament are instructive. It will be remembered that in November last the government passed an order-in-council prohibiting speculation in necessities of life, or undue boosting of the prices of the same, and fixing heavy penalties for violation of the order. Since then prices have been advanced by leaps and bounds, and although the minister of labor has reported great activity by his officers in the department under the order, no tangible results are apparent. Here is a question put to Mr. Crothers in parliament.

Mr. McColg: Has there ever been a conviction under that clause of the order in council?

Mr. Crothers: There has been no conviction under it in so far as I am aware, but there is nothing to prevent my hon. friend from West Kent, if he knows of any violation of the section, proceeding with the prosecution of a man for such violation.

In other words, the duty of the government can be undertaken by a private individual any time the latter cares, at the private individual's expense. That is to say, a private individual may get permission from Mr. Crothers to apply to the provincial attorney-general for permission to prosecute providing a parliamentary investigation has been carried out by Mr. Crothers's satisfaction. Mr. Crothers further takes the position that although he admits he has discovered that combines are "throttling competition" in Canada, nothing has been discovered to warrant action by the government under the order.

A WEAKENING POLICY.

From the Toronto Globe, To take the men and leave everything else to a scramble of conflicting interests would be a weakening policy, apart entirely from the resentment such deception would arouse. Canada's transportation machinery must be made to serve public before private needs. Food supplies in cold storage and in elevators must be handled for the strengthening of the dominion by the government. Labor must be organized and mobilized for the production of food and war supplies as well as for army service. Excessive profits, especially war profits, and the many gains through the slow responses of wages to the reduced purchasing power of money, should be used to lighten public burdens. A progressive and selective income tax may not be the best revenue system yet devised, but it is the best means yet suggested of meeting an honest share of the war cost year by year, instead of providing crushing burdens for the future. Men do not as a rule secure the advantages that provide large incomes until they are past the age for military service. Conscription of men does not reach them. If they want to play the part of shirkers and slackers it is the imperative and immediate duty of the government to conscript. If plans and regulations for this purpose have been neglected, if the ways and means are not ready for submission to parliament in the form of well-considered legislation, it will force the conclusion that the government cannot rise above the old habit of insulting the intelligence of the productive workers with a few verbal insinuations. Defects in the bill introduced can be remedied, but united support must be secured by current legislation meeting the demands of the dominion.

THE ALBERTA ELECTIONS.

From the Regina Post.

The cities in the West take their politics very seriously, and elections are won and lost in the cities over and over again before election day. But when election day rolls around, the farmers do the voting, and the result isn't very often what the cities think it will be or ought to be. The cities vote on the last issue and last cry presented to them on the eve of the elections. The farmers look further back and vote as their judgment dictates. There were many grounds of criticism of the Sifton administration in the recent election, and just one source of strength. That was the Sifton government's record of excellent legislation for the farmers. It carried them through.

GERMANS "THANK" RUSSIANS FOR REST

Petrograd, June 22.—Along the Russian northward front south of Smorgon, German airplanes have dropped leaflets which read:

"Thanks for the long rest, during which fraternization enabled us to transfer troops to the western front to hold up the attack of the English and French. Now enough are transferred. We are going to fight and will fire on fraternizers."

U.S. ENROLLMENT ALMOST 10,000,000

Washington, June 22.—Following receipt of war registration returns from Wyoming and Kentucky, making the nation's final total enrollment 9,649,938, Provost Marshal General Crowder announced today that draft regulations would be ready for publication July 1, two months before the first call to the colors.

SOCIALISTS CONFER AT STOCKHOLM

Copenhagen, June 22.—A Budapest despatch says that Hungarian Socialists have received a telegram from N. Tchaidse, the Russian Socialist leader, announcing the convocation by the Petrograd council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates of an international Socialist conference at Stockholm from June 28 to July 8. This is the first chronological direct communication between the belligerents.

JAPAN OFFERS SUPPORT.

Adventures of Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Cook

Uncle Wiggily and the Mock Turtle

Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Will you please take me with you this morning?" asked a little voice, somewhere down near the floor end of the old rabbit gentleman's rheumatism crutch, as Mr. Longears sat at breakfast table in his hollow stump bungalow. "Please take me with you!"

"Well, who are you, and where do you want to be taken?" asked the bunny.

"Oh, I'm Squeaky-Eeky, the little cousin mouse," was the answer, "and I want you to take me with you on one of your walks, so I can have an adventure as you do with Alice in Wonderland."

"But perhaps I may not see Alice in Wonderland," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "I do not always have that pleasure."

"Well, then, perhaps we'll see the Baby or the Duchess, or the Gryphon or some of the funny folk who make such jolly fun with you," went on Squeaky-Eeky. "I have a holiday from school today, because they are painting the blackboards white, and I'd like to come with you."

"Come along then!" cried Uncle Wiggily, giving the little cousin mouse a bit of cheese cake with some lettuce sugar sprinkled over the top. "We'll see what sort of adventure happens today."

So, calling good-bye to Nurse Jane Pussycat, and the other lady housekeeper, Uncle Wiggily and Squeaky-Eeky started off over the fields and through the woods. They had not gone very far before, all at once, as they walked along a little path under the trees they saw a funny thing lying near a clump of ferns.

It looked like a mud turtle at first, but after peering at it through his glasses Uncle Wiggily saw that the larger part was made of a half-round stone. In front of that was part of a broken rubber ball, and sticking out at the four corner places were four pieces of wood, like little claws, while at the back was a piece of an old leather boot.

"My! I wonder what in the world this can be?" said Uncle Wiggily, surprised like.

"Maybe it's something from Alice in Wonderland," spoke Squeaky-Eeky, the cousin mouse.

"You are right—I am!" exclaimed a voice. "I am the Mock-Turtle and I have just gotten out of the soup."

"Oh, I'm so glad to meet you!" cried Squeaky-Eeky. "I've always wanted to see what a real mock turtle looked like, ever since I read the book about Alice."

"Hum!" grunted the queer creature. "There's no such thing as a real mock turtle any more than there is a make-believe toothache."

"I hope you never have that," said Squeaky-Eeky, politely.

"Thank you, I don't care for any," answered the Mock-Turtle, just as if the little cousin mouse had passed the cake. And then the turtle began to sing:

"Speak gently to your toothache drops, And do not let them fall, And when you have the measles mumps, They'll surely hurt at all."

"Mine did," said Squeaky-Eeky, wondering if this was what Alice would have answered. But the Mock-Turtle kept right on with:

"Once a tramp was seated on A chair made out of cheese, He ate the legs and then he fell Down with a terrible sneeze."

"That isn't right," said Squeaky-Eeky. "It's a trap that was baited with a piece of cheese, and—"

"Hush!" suddenly exclaimed the Mock-Turtle. "Here he comes!"

"Who?" asked the little cousin mouse.

"Who you mean the tramp?" answered the Mock-Turtle, could answer alone came shuffling a big, shaggy bear. At first Uncle Wiggily and the little cousin mouse thought perhaps it was Neddie or Beekie Stubtail, one of the good boys and girls, but instead it was a bad old tramp sort of a bear—the kind that goes about taking honey out of the beehives.

"Ah, ha!" growled the bear. "A rabbit and mouse! That's fine for me! I shall have a good dinner, I'm sure!" and he smacked his red tongue against his teeth.

"Where will you get your dinner?" asked Uncle Wiggily, curious like.

"There is no restaurant or kitchen around here," went on Squeaky-Eeky. "Never you mind about that!" cried the bear. "I'll attend to you at dessert. Just now I want you to come here and count how many teeth I have!" and he opened his mouth real wide, that bear did.

"Oh, but I don't want to count your teeth," said the poor bunny gentleman, for well he knew what the bear's trick would be. The bear wanted to bite Uncle Wiggily.

"You must count my teeth!" growled the shaggy creature, coming close to Uncle Wiggily.

LIEUT. VAN PETTEN OF CAMROSE CAPTURED TEN OF HINDENBURG WARRIORS AT REVOLVER POINT

Found Huns Lurking in a Trench During the Canadian Assault on Vimy Ridge—His Platoon Had Job of "Mopping-up" the German Dug-outs—Wounded By Sniper, But is Reported Fit Again and Ready to Return to Duty.

The parents of Lieut. Emery J. Van Petten, of Camrose, who was recently wounded at Vimy Ridge, have received a letter from their son, sent from No. 10 General Hospital, King's College, London. Lieut. Van Petten's many friends will be glad to know that he has fully recovered from his wound and is ready to return to duty. In his letter he says: "We went over the top on Easter Monday and wrested the coveted Vimy Ridge from the wily Hun, while he was eating his Easter eggs. Vimy Ridge is quite an historical place and is of considerable strategic importance. It is a ridge several miles in length, rising gradually toward the French line for about half a mile and then dropping off abruptly into a great level plain. From the top of it you can see for miles over a plain which appears as level as a floor and in this way you can count over ten miles, including the city of London."

The Germans took the place in their first advance into France. The French regained it at a cost of sixty or seventy thousand men. Then it was taken over by the British, who lost it. Now we have taken it and expect to hold it.

It was a very pleasant little task and came off very nicely. Unfortunately our battalion happened to be the one of the brigade to be kept in reserve, so I was mopping up with my platoon. We went over the top and instead of going through to the final objectives we had to stop at the intermediate objective and bomb the dugouts and see that they were clear. There was not a great deal of fighting in this for the Germans were glad to be taken.

Captured Ten Huns
"At one time during the day I was standing on a mound about a hundred yards from my platoon when I noticed some Huns concealing themselves and running up a trench. I fired my revolver and gave chase. When I got quite close to where they had disappeared I stopped to reload. Then, stepping forward a few paces I could see one of them crouched in a trench about 30 feet away. I ordered him cut, then another, and another, until I had ten of Hindenburg's indomitable troops. I set them to work carrying in some of our wounded men and of course, they eventually reached the big wire cage behind our lines. The prisoners were big men, well dressed and very fresh looking, but our artillery has the fear in them."

"The ground we advanced over was like a great honeycomb. There was not a square foot unturned by shells. In some of the dugouts we found eggs and oranges. They had been issued with Easter rations."

"Two days later a wily Hun tried to snuff my light away and that is why I am here. I was taking over a portion of the new line on the steep slope of Vimy. It was about dusk, snowing and miserable, and the Huns were down at the foot of the hill, about 100 yards away. I had my men in the trench and I was going along to get down to the last man who warned me I said I didn't give a whoop, changed my mind soon afterward."

Shot by Sniper
"A sniper took a try at me. The bullet entered the abdominal muscles, ricocheted against some 1916 pudding and came out again. When I left the line I thought he had fixed me, but the bullet evidently did not touch the internal organs. "I am feeling fine and am enjoying my trip to the old country. My greatest hardship was living on hot milk for three days. Sir Robert Borden was in and talked to me for a minute yesterday."

HORSE SHOW IS HELD BEHIND LINE IN FRANCE

Canadian Corps Have Annual Event Amid Torrential Downpour of Rain

Canadian Headquarters in France, June 22, via London.—The Canadian Corps held its annual horse show today amid torrential rain. That did not matter, there were no ladies attending, there was no spring millinery, no grand stand. Under these conditions the horse came to his own as a centre of attraction. The transformation in the condition of the artillery and transport animals since March and early April, when serious losses were sustained because of the long continuous bad weather, is most remarkable. Sleek, finely groomed horses, their spirit restored by careful handling, pranced about as if they had never experienced the hardships of winter. Some of them are veterans with scars of three campaigns upon them. A battery horse of the original division carries on his brow band three narrow straps of gold braid, such as the wounded men wear on their tunic sleeves as a badge of distinction. This horse was wounded in the flank at Ypres in 1915, lost a rib at Somme, and was shot in the neck at Vimy. He is still in good condition and doubtless spins great yarns to the recruits that are his stable companions.

While judging between rival batteries is not so dangerous as umpiring a baseball match, it is perhaps as well that the judges are chosen from outside the corps. Their awards today were such as to encourage a lot of young fellows who never got prizes before to spend laborious days and nights keeping their horses and equipment in the pink of condition.

RESERVE MILITIA AMBULANCE CORPS

The Ambulance Corps, in connection with Edmonton Battalion Reserve Militia, had a good attendance at the Wednesday evening drill on First Street market grounds. Sergeant R. C. H. Turner was in charge. The work of this section is highly appreciated by the R. M. officers. The men have been giving regular attention to their drills, lectures and exercises throughout the whole time of their attachment to the R. M. battalion.

SATISFIED MOTHERS

No other medicine gives as great satisfaction to mothers as does Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets are equally good for the newborn babe and the growing child. They are absolutely free from injurious drugs and cannot possibly do harm—always good. Concerning them Mrs. J. M. Gorman, St. Pamphile, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and am well satisfied with them and would use no other medicine for my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GRAPHIC STORY TELLS GRIMNESS OF BATTLEFIELD

Describes Sensations When Men Go "Over the Top" Into
No Man's Land

An Alberta soldier, L. E. W., writing to his mother from "somewhere in hell," describes the grimness and horror of the battlefield more realistically and impressively in his simple recital than some more ambitious writers have done. He writes, under date of April 15, "I can just imagine the 15th of April at home. Things must be in their glory out there. It has been snowing and raining quite a bit where we are. It always seems to be so cold over here. "Well, we are staying down here in a deep tunnel. It is not such a bad place. I was over the top three times last week. I tell you it was kind of shocking to the nerves at times to see the dead persons lying around. I was knocked down several times by the concussion of the shells. But I must thank the Lord and here to tell the tale. I tell you when that old shrapnel cracks over your head it makes you feel like hugging the ground."

Captured Fritzies have been walking by here. They have helped to carry in the wounded. I tell you I did not fancy going over No Man's Land, it was so rough and soft. Quite a few of the boys got a lot of watches and stuff. I did not have nerve enough to take anything from anybody but I have a dandy safety razor which I found. "Roy (a chum) and I went out and found two leaves of black soap bread and a can of jam. We had a feed that morning. Then another afternoon we went over to a Fritz town and found a bottle of red wine, a bag of biscuits and a can of meat. We never took any grub with us except a little bully beef and hard tack. We never had any tea at all except what we made ourselves. "I sure have seen some funny things in the last week. I'll tell you all about it when I see you, if that ever happens."

Edmonton Boys Win Honors

Capt. T. M. Reid

Mayne Reid, barrister, has just received word that his brother, Sergeant David Reid, of the 13th Canadian machine gun company, has been awarded the military medal for bravery in the field. Sergeant Reid, who was employed for some time by the Great West Coal company, limited, as an engineer, enlisted in September, 1914, and has been continuously at the front for over 27 months. Mr. Reid has also received word that his brother, Captain T. M. Reid, of the 7th King's Own Scottish Borderers, who was awarded the military cross several months ago, has been missing in France since May 3rd. He was last seen leading his men in an attack on a German trench.

Lieut. Alex. Kerr

Lieut. Alexander Kerr is an Edmonton boy who has earned his rank by virtue of sheer merit and soldierly efficiency. The news that he has just received his commission, on the other side, will be heard with great satisfaction by his many friends in this city who appreciate his sterling worth and many good qualities. They are sure that Lieut. Kerr will make his mark in the great conflict now being waged.

He left for overseas last September with the 196th University battalion and has passed successfully through the grades of lance corporal, corporal and sergeant. Previous to enlistment Lieut. Kerr had just finished at the Edmonton High School. He formerly resided at 11259 96th street.

Alberta Heroes in Casualties

Lieut. J. G. Downton

A message has been received from the militia department announcing that Lieut. J. G. Downton, of this city, had been wounded during the recent fighting on the western front. The wounded officer was a well known citizen of Edmonton, having been previously in the Adams Meat Company. He enlisted in 1915 and went overseas with the 49th battalion with the rank of sergeant.

Pte. Cecil Price

Pte. Cecil Price was a well-known Edmonton boy who has given his life for king and country. He left here last spring with the 63rd battalion, and on the other side was transferred to another Canadian battalion. He was 24 years of age and, previous to enlistment, was a member of the Royal North West Mounted Police. He made his home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Davy, of Nanaimo, B.C. His death was a great loss to his family and to the community.

BIRDS WHISTLE AND SING AS SHELLS BURST AROUND THEM

Graphic Description Is Given Of Life In Trenches By Camrose Boy,
Who Went Over With 151st Battalion—Battalion's Boys
Have Made Names For Themselves In France.

The following interesting letter from the pen of Pte. Thompson, who left Camrose with the 151st battalion, describes life in the trenches which they have recently taken from the Germans. The second letter is from Pte. Halley Henry, formerly of the 5th University, and now with the 7th Brigade Machine Gunners.

M. G. S. 50th Batt.
France, May 31st, 1917.

Your p. c. to hand and having nothing to do for a short time will endeavor to answer. Your invitation to "come along" I would gladly accept at once only the old expression of "pressure of business" stands in the way.

At present I am writing in a Fritz dugout, one in which Fritz spent last winter, when our boys used to be shivering to death in the trenches and using all kinds of biblical terms towards Heine. It is fixed up dandy, has a spring mattress, a couch, table and chairs, also a nice French cook stove. It's an ideal residence, and although it is not a patch on some others I've seen is good enough. It is situated just behind our line in a wood and flowers of several varieties are growing right at the entrance. The birds sing and whistle day and night and I even heard a cuckoo. The presence of birds in this heavily shelled area is contrary to what I expected. I thought they would be scared and keep away, but such is not the case. I have found two bird's nests, one at the entrance to a dugout which was blown in, but the bird remains to hatch on the four eggs which are still there. Our battalion has made a name for itself in this push and new tanks with the 49th, 31st and 10th. Our casualties have not been heavy although quite a bunch are gone. Several Camrose boys, also Strome boys are killed and wounded. Some belong to other battalions. Sgt. Roberts, Ed. and G. Spruhan, Archie Harris, A. W. T. La-dell, Gale Seward, Joe Labourene, Lieut. McCullough, Lt. Mercer, Corp. Cooper, Angus Anderson, J. Cosser and Henry Fox are among those killed and wounded. The following three boys are missing: Dave Ross, Dan Woods and E. Caines. The rest of the boys are well and alive so far as I know.

The weather is ideal and has been for the past two weeks. We have been under almost incessant shell fire for two weeks now and it is beginning to set on our nerves.

There are lots of things I would like to tell you but the censor would only get after me.

Yours sincerely,
PTE. JACK THOMPSON.
France, May 15th, 1917.

RECRUITING IS STILL GOING ON FOR DRAGOONS

Men Will Receive First Part Of Training in Sarsce Camp,
Calgary

Recruiting is still in progress for the overseas draft from the 19th Alberta Dragoons, and Major A. E. Hopkins, who has charge of recruiting, reports that the men are now in training at Sarsce Camp, Calgary, and horses and saddlery having been supplied, so that the men will receive the first part of their training as cavalry in Alberta before proceeding to the cavalry depot at Shorncliffe, England, prior to reinforcing the Canadian cavalry in France.

Lieut. R. P. Blakey and Sgt. J. H. Pavey have charge of the draft at Sarsce Camp, and recruiting for same is being conducted at the headquarters of the 19th Alberta Dragoons, Victoria avenue armory, where applications may be made and information given to anyone who desires the cavalry work, as more men are urgently needed for this draft for overseas service.

There are many officers and men from the 19th Alberta Dragoons who are still serving with the cavalry in France, and during the recent advance this branch of the service have been getting in their good work, and so have had many casualties, which have to be made up with trained men, especially as it takes much longer to train the cavalry soldier, it is very desirable to obtain as many recruits as possible at once.

A cavalry soldier has to be trained with his horse, sword, lance and rifle, and also thoroughly trained with the training of this branch of the service occupies considerable time. It is very necessary that a man applying to join the 19th Alberta Dragoons overseas draft should have had some experience with horses, and be able to ride, which is very necessary in this regiment whether a man joins for home service or overseas service, as it saves considerable time in the preliminary training.

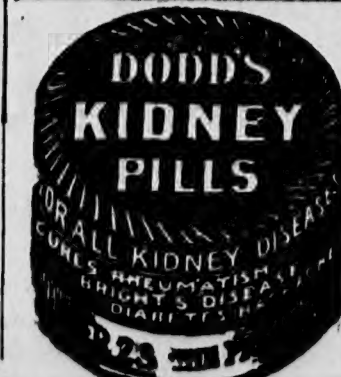

the chalk cliffs of Dover. I can tell you it was pleasant looking around the beach enjoying the balmy air and the sunshine, and it seemed wonderful to rest between white sheets once more and see real nurses, and so much common to civilian life.

Right now I am stationed about 15 minutes' walk from the beach and last night I walked down town. It is a very pretty place and very lively but the streets are narrow and crooked, and a fellow could easily get lost. Am going down again this evening to buy a regular meal if it costs all my money (7 francs). Food of all kinds is an awful price and I suppose it is nearly as bad over there. When we get peace things will be different.

I saw Vernon Sampson in the trenches and he is looking very fit. Write and let me know how the boys came out in the Vimy Ridge affair as you will get news before I do. I saw Ed. Robertson for a few minutes in the trench and he got through alright so far as I know.

Guess by the time I get back, there will be a pile of mail for me, and there are no parcels which will spoil for a few weeks.

Yours, HALLEY.

HOW ESTATES OF SOLDIERS WHO MEET DEATH WHILE ON ACTIVE SERVICE ARE DISPOSED OF

Officer in Charge of This Branch of the Military Department at Ottawa Gives Details of Plan Followed in Distributing Property of War's Victims.

Many inquiries have been received by the Bulletin with reference to the disposing of soldiers' estates. It is now possible to give full information with regard to this.

A circular has just been issued by the officer in charge of estates, in the office of the Auditor and Paymaster-General at Ottawa, which gives complete information concerning the procedure followed in the distribution of the estates of soldiers who lose their lives while serving with the Canadian expeditionary force.

On the death of a soldier whilst on active service in France the casualty is notified by cable in England, and then to Ottawa; his personal effects are collected, placed in a package and forwarded to the base, where they are checked and an inventory sent with them to the office of the director of pay and records services (estates branch), London, England, and are there again checked and rewrapped for distribution.

When there has been very heavy fighting there is little chance of collecting any personal effects, and in many cases if death has been caused by heavy shell fire there are, unfortunately, neither effects nor remains; but in some cases the London office receives the personal effects of soldiers dying in territory occupied by the enemy.

If a man has left any personal effects in England before going to the front, these are collected and forwarded to the London office and the whole of his personal effects are then forwarded to the estates branch, Ottawa, that is, if the beneficiary or next of kin resides in this country.

The deceased's pay account is closed as soon as his death is officially reported, and it is then known as non-effective account. A lapse of four or five months is necessary before a non-effective account can be properly certified as correct and in some cases six months. If the next of kin, or beneficiary, resides in this country, the account is forwarded here for settlement.

Affecting Minors.
The pay books are all forwarded to the London office, and if the same contains a will, it is extracted and placed on file for safe keeping, and properly indexed.

When the non-effective account, personal and surplus effects reach this office, the legal domicile of the deceased is carefully gone into and in the case of an intestate the military estate is distributed according to the law of the province of the deceased's domicile.

(It is worthy of note that a minor (unmarried) cannot acquire a domicile of choice but has the same domicile as his father—that of origin.)

A soldier, even if he is not of full age, under section 9 of the wills act, whilst on active military service may dispose of his personal estate either by a holograph will, by letter, or by a verbal statement substantiated by witnesses. This section applies to all the provinces in Canada, with a slight difference in Quebec.

Military Will Law.
All wills are carefully examined at Ottawa, the domicile decided and the intention of the testator is carried out as far as possible. A military will can only dispose of personal estate, and real estate in no way affected by it unless the same is executed according to law. That is a point which should be brought to the attention of the soldier when he is making his will, as sometimes it is impossible to carry out his full wishes after death.

The legacies named in the wills are all notified, a certified copy is forwarded to them, and an identification form completed and returned to this office.

The officer in charge of the estates branch is fully empowered by the regimental debt act, 1893, as amended by an order made by His Majesty's principal secretary of state for the colonies, dated 1st of December, 1915, and further amended by the privy council of Canada, dated 28th day of March, 1916, to decide all questions of domicile, validity of wills, of law and fact, and to distribute all military estate in the manner laid down.

ARMY MEDICAL CORPS CONTINUES RECRUITING WORK

Although many of the recruiting offices in Edmonton have ceased to do business, the Army Medical Corps are still open to sign on eligible men. Within the past few days a draft of 50 n. c. o.'s and men left Calgary for service overseas and another draft will be formed immediately. Some of the men attested during the past week are J. W. McCready, E. F. Allison, J. H. Berg, J. S. Todd, Jas. Taylor, C. Ackroyd and W. Robertson. These men will proceed at once to the training depot in Calgary.

The period of training is now, however, very short owing to the repeated orders for men, and another draft will be formed immediately. No previous experience is necessary to join this popular unit, the only qualification necessary being that applicants should be able to read and write English. To men wishing to acquire valuable knowledge and at the same time proceed overseas with little delay, the Army Medical Corps offers a splendid opportunity.

Full information may be had from the A. M. C. recruiting staff in charge of Corp. Webster, Room 8, Bradburn block, 10160 101st street, Edmonton.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.
Winnipeg, June 22.—Winnipeg October wheat again opened up to 10 o'clock, July was unchanged to 10 o'clock, October unchanged, December 1/2 higher, Flax was unchanged.
Minneapolis wheat opened 3 1/2 up for July at 22 1/2, September was down at 17 1/2. There were 70 cars inspected at Winnipeg out of which 355 were contract. The weather in the west has been part cloudy and cool with considerable rain in the three provinces.
Winnipeg market was strong all day with no special reason except that Liverpool was rather bullish and predicted smaller world shipments. American markets were also very strong all day.
Winnipeg October was up 1/2 at the close, July oats closed 1/2 higher, at unchanged and December 1/2 higher. Flax was down 1/2 for July and 1/2 for Oct. Minneapolis July 1 1/2 higher and Sept. 2 higher. Winnipeg cash wheat went up on strength on American markets there was an increased demand for Canadian millers. Offering very light, there was a fair trade in oats.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.
Chicago, June 22.—Wheat today showed decided strength which was associated more or less with reports that arrangements had been made to increase commercial tonnage available for shipments to Europe. Some of the assistance was expected from Japan. Notable upturns took place in the July option, but the volume of business remained very small. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/2 off to 1/2 advance, with July at 2 1/2 to 2 1/2 and Sept. at 1 1/2 to 1 1/2, were followed by a moderate rise in the September delivery and then a slight reaction all around.
Forecast of unsettled weather has a bullish effect on corn. Besides, country offerings to arrive proved meagre. After opening 1/2 to 1/2 higher, the market scored sharp gains all around.
Oats went up grade with other cereals. Commission houses generally on the buying side.
Provisions averaged higher influenced by the strength of corn.
In subsequent transaction the upward movement of prices was at no time seriously interrupted. The close was strong 1/2 to 1/2 net higher with July at 2 1/2 and September 1 1/2.
High bids from the seaboard emphasized throughout the session the scarcity of old corn. Prices closed nervous at 2 to 4 1/2 net advance.

CHICAGO CASH CLOSE.
Chicago, June 22.—Cash wheat No. 2 red nominal; No. 3 red 22 1/2; No. 2 hard and 3 hard, nominal.
MINNEAPOLIS CASH CLOSE.
Minneapolis, June 22.—Cash cash wheat No. 1 hard, 27 1/2 to 28; No. 1 Northern 26 1/2 to 27 1/2; No. 2 northern 24 to 25 1/2; No. 3 wheat 23 1/2 to 24 1/2; Oats, No. 5 white 69 to 71; Flax 310 to 315.

The Poison of German Intrigue.
—Wilson's Antidote

German intrigue in America as well as in Russia, in the form of veiled peace proposals, which, to use the words of President Wilson, "aim to deceive all those throughout the world who stand for the rights of peoples and the self-government of nations," is the subject of the leading article in this week's LITERARY DIGEST, dated June 23rd.

The article, using the President's note to the Russian people and his Flag Day address as a basis, makes very clear just what America is fighting for and the peace that must come. It throws the light of public opinion in this country, as shown by the newspaper press, upon the President's words, and shows that they are not only a warning to the Russians to avoid the fatal error of deserting the Allies, but, in the opinion of the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, they are "also a warning to Pro-German neutrals and to Pro-Germans in this country." The article also gives answer to those who favor the making of a separate peace by Russia.

Among other topics of almost equal interest and importance which are treated in this issue of the "Digest," are:

All News-Roads Lead At Last to "The Digest"

Did you ever stop to think of the path your news travels to reach you, of how an event no sooner happens than the story of it speeds away, by word of mouth, by telegraph or telephone, is flashed through submarine cables or flies free in air on the wings of the wireless to the office of some newspaper, where it is translated into cold type, rushed through the presses, and hurried forth again by motor-car, by boat, by rail, on horseback, and in some remote districts, on camel-back, on sledges, or by canoe, to reach your door?

All this is wonderful enough, but when you reflect that the published news of the whole world comes to the editors of THE LITERARY DIGEST, and is put by them through an impartial sieve, which retains only the choicest part, uncolored and unchanged in the least degree, then your wonder grows. For your use and benefit the path of all the world's events is concentrated without bias in the columns of THE DIGEST, week by week. Be advised and avail yourself today of this greatest of modern news-recorders.

The club will hold another meeting next Thursday night in the church to complete organization. Baseball and tennis are expected to be the leading sports of the club.

The officers of the senior branch are: President, Clifford Young; vice-president, A. Madras; treasurer, H. Canniff. A. Williams was elected president of the junior branch. A. Nettles vice-president, W. Montgomery treasurer and E. Shown secretary.

SOLDIER FOOTBALL BEATS HIGH SCHOOL

Score Was Five To One In Favor Of Veterans At Finish.

A good soccer match was played last night at the Diamond Park between the returned soldiers and the Victoria high school, the result ending in favor of the soldiers with a score of five goals to one. The high school was not up to their usual strength owing to four of their best players being out of the city, which gave the returned boys an advantage. The soldiers' team is greatly improved and was by far the best team on the field. It will keep the high school busy to beat them in the return match next Wednesday night at the Victoria school grounds. On that occasion the school boys will have their regular team out, so a good match is expected.

The scorers in last night's match were: Munro (2), Pearce, Price and Guld for the soldiers and MacCabe for the school. The teams lined up as follows:

Returned Soldiers—Pleasants, goal; Adams and Hunter, backs; Wood, Price and Hodges, halves; Clarke, Jenkins, Guld, Munro and Pearce, forwards.

Victoria High School—Wanton, goal; Blue and Samis, backs; Watson, Hall and Baxter, halves; Craig, Hall, Thompson, Douglas and MacCabe, forwards.

Made Ten Hits
WINNIPEG, June 22.—"Judy" Malone pitched and hit in tonight's game against Warren and won it with the assistance of Stevenson's two doubles, the score being 4 to 3 in seven and one-half innings. The "Pegs" tamed Delbert with ten hits, although many of the support given the moundmen in the field was not up to standard, errors at critical moments spoiling good work. Score:

Used Three Pitchers
WASHINGTON, June 22.—Philadelphia used three pitchers and Washington two today in a game that ended 6 to 5 in favor of the home team.

Daring Running
CHICAGO, June 22.—Faber's good pitching, coupled with erratic fielding by the visitors and some daring base running by the locals gave Chicago a 4 to 1 victory over Cleveland today.

Mays' Good Work
NEW YORK, June 22.—Boston won from New York here today by a score of 2 to 1. Mays' fine pitching was too much for the Yanks.

Hit Hard
ST. LOUIS, June 22.—Cincinnati hit Ames' delivery hard today, while Schneider kept St. Louis' six hits well scattered and Cincinnati won, 5 to 2. The visitors made four doubles and a triple, all of which figured in the scoring.

New York Defeated
BOSTON, June 22.—Boston defeated New York 5 to 4 today. The visitors used four pitchers, but they were not effective, while Neph improved as the game progressed.

Dell's Double Costly
PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Dell's fumble in the third inning of Bancroft's grounder proved very costly today and was the big factor in Philadelphia's victory over Brooklyn, the score being 5 to 3. The error resulted in four runs.

Sporting Facts and Fancies

The White Sox have a gem of a shortstop in Hieberg who is doing some star performing these days. Now if he can only improve his work with the bat he'll soon become one of our leading citizens.

Eddie Cicotte, pitcher for the White Sox, has everybody worried with that "shine ball" of his. Eddie is not letting any of the boys know how he handles it or what he does to the ball but wherever he appears the eyes of the players as well as the fans are glued to his delivery.

Connie Mack hasn't gained a name as a great maker of ball players for nothing. If any further proof were needed of his ability one might point to Ping Bodie and Rube Schauer. These two players are developing winning qualities under the careful supervision of the Athletics' famous manager.

George Stallings is working his Boston Braves under high pressure and is getting a first class brand of ball out of his men. He insists that his outfit will be a serious contender for pennant honors at the end of the season.

Baseball managers are certainly having their troubles this year. In one case the infield is weak, in another the outfield. With another both may be good, but the stick work is bad, and so on. Trouble with the pitching staff seems to be the chronic and universal. There is John McGraw, for example, who is getting grey worrying about his moundmen. Peritt and Tereau are both in poor physical condition. Breton slumps every once in a while, Salter is fairly good and the burden of the work falls on Schupp and Anderson. These men can be counted on to hold out for a long time to come but sooner or later will crack under the strain if there is no relief.

Eleven years ago an event took place at Spokane, Wash., that caused one of the bitterest controversies in sporting annals. On that day, June 23, 1906, Dan Kelly, until then absolutely unknown in the world of sports, was said to have run a hundred yards in nine and three-fifths seconds. This record was accepted by the Amateur Athletic Union on the testimony of a score of reputable men, who declared that they had inspected the watches, three in number, and that all read alike—9 3-5 seconds. No other record in amateur athletics aroused so much controversy as that attributed to Kelly. One of those who refused to believe in the authenticity of Kelly's time was the late lamented Mike Murphy, who a year later became Kelly's trainer and who knew the youth, if anybody did. Murphy maintained that Kelly hadn't it in him to do better than 10 1-5. It was later alleged that official timekeepers at Spokane made the time over ten seconds. It is certain that Kelly never did anything wonderful after that, although he had the advantage of being trained by Murphy and other experts.

The Louisville Club of the American association celebrated June 23, 1889, by winning a game after having lost twenty-six games straight, establishing a record for consecutive losses in major league ball. On the same day in the following year a curious game was played between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh teams of the Players' league. In that game Mike Griffin of Philadelphia got to first base four times without making a single hit. He made his four trips to first on fumbles by players on the opposing team. On June 23, 1907, "Jiggs" Donahue had a hard luck day which has rarely been equalled. "Jiggs" was playing with the White Sox against Cleveland. He came up to bat five times when men were on bases and failed to advance a single one, leaving eleven of his mates stranded. Cleveland won the game which went to twelve innings, score 7 to 5.

Today in Pugilistic Annals.
1909—Harry Lewis and Harry Mansfield fought a six-round, no decision bout at Philadelphia.
1911—Freddie Welsh defeated Matty Baldwin in twenty rounds at San Francisco.

WHAT PRESS

LEAD BILL AT
THE PANTAGESCharlie Ahearn One of the Best in His Line to be Found in Varieties

With the exception of one act, and that one of the most beautiful and artistic classical dancing features ever staged, the whole Pantages bill next week will be devoted to comedy, a laughing bill well calculated to drive away the blues during more or less torrid weather.

The big laugh maker will be Charlie Ahearn, the most remarkable tramp cyclist in the world. He really is the recognition of the famous performer's fame, having progressed to such a point that Charlie Ahearn's name invariably headlines any vaudeville bill on which he appears.

"The Birth of a Rose" is the title of the remarkable pantomime dance given by ten beautiful and talented California girls. Like many of the famous classic dances of modern interpretation, the model for "The Birth of a Rose" has been taken from one of the perfect (Greek) friezes now preserved in the British museum.

And then there comes in succession on the bill Nelson and Nelson, edited and funny; Harry Godfrey and Veta Henderson, in "Catakill, N.Y.," a clever skit; and Eddie Kane and Jay Harmon, the "Midnight Sons." The latter introduce themselves as a couple of New York clubmen, out so late that they encounter each other on the shores of Jersey, just as the suburban milkmen are starting citywards. The scene they use is a striking night view of the sky-line of New York from across the Hudson.

DEATH CHEATED BY MOTION PICTURES; SAM DRANE AS
LINCOLN WILL LIVE FOREVERObscure Vandeville Actor Becomes Famous Over Night in World
Screenland

For the first time in the stage history of all the ages, an actor is becoming world-famous after his death. This actor who has set an precedent at naught is Sam D. Drane, the Abraham Lincoln of "The Crisis," coming to the Empire theatre next Tuesday.

Until "The Crisis" was flashed before the public, nobody ever heard of Sam Drane, and before the first public showing, and, indeed, before the film was far enough along in the developing room to give the actor himself a glimpse of what he had done, Sam Drane had passed into the ranks of evanescing shadows. Today, Sam Drane's name is on the lips of everybody who goes to the theatre, yet Sam Drane's ears are cold to the lavish praise bestowed upon him.

This pathetic and somewhat uncanny state of affairs has been brought about through the creation of the art of the motion picture. In the old days, if the actor did not make his impression, while in flesh and blood, there was no chance for him to escape eternal oblivion. Through the very nature of his art, even the actor, who had become famous, ceased to impress directly upon his death, and only the memory of what he had done remained. Nobody living today can judge of the merits of a Garrick or a Paganini as of the merits of a Shakespeare or a Beethoven.

But the motion picture has become a means of preserving the player's art for posterity. Several actors have died since they played before the screen, but Drane has the unique distinction of being the first to come into fame from total obscurity after his death. He ranks in this respect with Homer, who died an unrecognized beggar; Keats, whom obscurity tormented to death; and Fitzgerald, whose immortal "Rubaiyat" Omar Khayyam" remained "undiscovered" until long after he was cold in the grave.

Drane was a vaudeville actor, playing the cheap circuits, and making a precarious hand-to-mouth living when "Win N. Selig" heard of his remarkable resemblance to Lincoln and sent for him. Drane glided responded, was instantly accepted at the studio, and immediately set to work on the first and last important task of his life. He had scarcely completed his engagement when a quick pneumonia ended his flesh-and-blood career on earth. But death was cheated for the first time in stage history. The new art of the motion picture rendered impossible the blighting of an unstarred career.

Angus Vernon and Franklyn Farnum in "The Clock" on Monday and Tuesday, and the Metro on Wednesday and Thursday with Clifford Bruce and Dorothy Green, and on Friday and Saturday Harry D. Carey in the "Fighting Gringo" is a program that is sure to please everyone. Vernon and Farnum are two of the Bluebirds' most popular stars. "The Clock" on Monday and Tuesday is a comedy-drama and one that will drive away the worst case of blues that you ever had. It is a society comedy of five acts and Miss Vernon very studiously teaches Mr. Farnum how to be a good boy, and he sure is—after awhile. Harry D. Carey in "The Fighting Gringo" will give all the thrills that one could wish on Friday and Saturday. Ethel Barrymore and Billy Burke will soon be shown regularly at the Majesty. "Gloria's Romance" with Miss Burke will be screened July 9th, 10th and 11th. All those who saw this charming actress in "Peggy" will do well to see her in this coming attraction.

REALISM IN
THE EMPRESSRemarkably Vivid Scenes Are Shown in "The Girl
Philippa"

The bombardment scenes of "The Girl Philippa," the special eight-reel Vitagraph production from the novel by Robert W. Chambers, which was directed by E. Rankin Drew, starring America's daintiest actress, Miss Anita Stewart, are remarkably vivid and realistic. For the realism of this picture, which is the attraction at the Empress theatre the first four days of next week, the Vitagraph company erected a French village in their immense open-air studio. Here cobbles stones were laid for the street, skirting on either side by the rough sidewalks before the quaint two-story houses with the gable roofs. In the centre of the public square they placed the fountain which sings a happy song of peace and contentment in the first part of the picture, as it tinkles into a large stone basin. Then the neighboring country was searched for rough market wagons such as the French peasants use on market day. Eventually it was found necessary to build them from a model. A large flock of sheep was then installed with the old shepherd and his crook. Hundreds of extra people were dressed as French peasants, and they may be seen strolling arm in arm in groups as they buy and sell goods. But the enemy is merciless in its effort to gain victory, and suddenly the peaceful inhabitants are startled by the bursting of a shell in the village square. As they flee hither and thither in confusion, the people run from the different houses and the enemy may be seen pressing forward in the distance. Now one aircraft after another circles over the previously peaceful town, dropping horrible death-dealing shells into the modest houses. The air is filled with smoke, and the frantic forms of the villagers are hardly discernible. Furniture dragged from the houses is placed on either side of the fountain, forming a barricade. Now one house falls; then as it catches fire the flames extend to the next building. The girl Philippa, played by Anita Stewart, is in terror. In a house which holds the proofs of her rightful heritage, nobility, be destroyed before she can enter the wine cellar, where the precious papers which are concealed in a safe. Toward the house she runs as though on wings, and it is only by the merest chance that she reaches it in time to claim what is rightfully hers.

Sam Drane, who impersonated Lincoln in "The Crisis," the film drama which comes to the Empire theatre next Tuesday.TWO FEATURES SCHEDULED FOR
THE MONARCHPauline Frederick and "Fatty"
Arbuckle On Same Program
All Next Week.

Pauline Frederick has temporarily forsaken her customary "heavy" roles and in her latest Famous Players Paramount picture, "Her Better Self," which will be shown at the Monarch all next week, will be seen as a young society butterfly in love with a very serious young doctor. In this picture, Miss Frederick has drawn a character sketch of the very heart and life of this young girl that will live as one of her most remarkable pieces of work and rank with such of her masterpieces as "Sapho," "Audrey," "Zaza" and others, although differing widely from any of these.

Miss Frederick is said to have given an exceptionally fine interpretation of this difficult role and is ably supported by a splendid cast, including Thomas Meighan, who has been seen with Miss Frederick in most of her recent productions; Frank de Rheim, Armand Cortes, Alice Hollister, and Maude Turner Gordon. On the same program will be found "Fatty" Arbuckle, in the second comedy release of his own film corporation, "A Reckless Romeo." It is said that the making of this picture was attended with some stirring episodes when the scenes shown in Pasadena Park were being taken. The big amusement resort perched on top of the historic Palisades, is a most romantic place and there is always a certain excitement there, but the presence of Mr. Arbuckle and his company of famous comedians provided thrills and sensations that no oratorical "Ballyhoo" man could do justice to.

In presenting "A Reckless Romeo," Arbuckle has achieved something different from anything he has done in a comedy way in the past. Incidentally, with the exception of Al St. John, the company he employed in making this film was entirely different from the organization that helped him make his first release for his own company.

BESSIE EYTON IS ACTRESS OF A
BRAND NEW TYPEStepped Almost Direct From Her Home Into Movie Leadership

No better example of the brand new type of actress, developed entirely for the new art of the photodrama, can be found than Bessie Eyton, the Virginia Carvel of "The Crisis," which comes to the Empire the last five afternoons and evenings next week.

Three years ago, little Miss Eyton, handsome, red-haired and still in her teens, rode from her California ranch home one morning straight to the studios of the Selig company in response to an advertisement for extra girls to take part in a new feature. Something in her looks and manner attracted the experienced eye of Director Colin Campbell. Mr. Campbell put her into the movie scene to be staged, but gave her a prominent position. He watched her work. He soon saw that his first judgment was correct, and Bessie Eyton there and then entered upon a career that quickly led her to stardom. She was unspoiled for the screen by any previous experience on the speaking stage, whose art is radically different, and Mr. Campbell moulded her exactly in the lines of the new art.

Miss Eyton was born in Santa Barbara, and grew up between the big mountains and the blue sea. In earliest childhood, she developed a taste for athletics, and became equally expert in riding the cattle ranges of the Santa Ynez and swimming in the Pacific. Movie lovers who have seen her in her early pictures will remember her daring rides on the backs of elephants, camels, buffaloes and all manner of bronches finally culminating in a sensational ride across a South African desert on the back of an ostrich to summon help from a British army post for the occupants of a lonely ranch house besieged by renegade natives. As a swimmer, she has been seen in daring dives from the decks of steamers in mid-ocean, and has brought up pearls and jewels from the bottom of mile-deep bays. It was Bessie Eyton, too, who, in "The Story of Lavina," made the startling fall from the second-story window of a burning house that has been pronounced the most daring feat ever accomplished by a motion picture actress.

Miss Eyton, however, had ambitions higher than sensational melodrama, and displayed such unusual qualities of femininity that Director Campbell gradually withdrew the little star from the "stunt" ranks. In "The Crisis" the evolution is accomplished completely. She is a sweet, though proud, Southern beauty, dainty, refined and thoroughly feminine throughout.

'A RECKLESS ROMEO'

WITH MUSICAL INTERPRETATION BY THE MONARCH PARAMOUNT ORCHESTRA'FATTY' ARBUCKLE
COOK AS WELL AS
BIG FILM COMEDIAN

To be one of the highest salaried film comedians in the world is usually an achievement big enough for one lifetime but when you add ability to cook and to give pleasure by tickling the palate with appetizing dishes the combination is to say the least unusual. Such, however, is the distinction of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle whose second comedy two-reeler "A Reckless Romeo."

Mr. Arbuckle is not a professional chef. Oh, no. Like Topsy, he "just grew up" to be a chef. Nobody suspected his skill in the culinary art until recently during the making of the studio scenes for "A Reckless Romeo." Part of the stage settings included a gas stove and "Fatty" remarked that it was a shame not to put it to practical use. "You get the raw materials and I'll cook a meal for the troupe," he suggested to Al St. John. "You're on," said the latter, and the company laughed, thinking Mr. Arbuckle was about to entertain them with another prank.

Then he surprised them by pulling off his coat, rolling up his sleeves and starting the gas stove going. He announced that he would cook an Italian meal with spaghetti, salad and lemon pie. St. John hustled out and got the edibles. First the comedian essayed the lemon pie, rolling the dough and baking the crust by itself and then putting in the filling. When it was done and placed on the sideboard, St. John had to admit it certainly looked the part of a good pie according to restaurant standards. The salads came next, made with tuna fish, peas, a spice of onions and garlic, lettuce and tomato. It looked good too. Then came the spaghetti with Roman cheese. Last of all "Fatty" baked a batch of biscuits and prepared the coffee. The seven members of the company sat down to the dinner and at its completion unanimously declared Mr. Arbuckle as big a success as a cook as he is a comedian. Since then, or during the time "A Reckless Romeo" was being filmed, and the stove was installed, "Fatty" gave frequent evidences of his culinary accomplishments and his dinner came to be regarded as distinct events.

In the World of Labor

CONSCRIPTION was discussed at considerable length at the last meeting of the Trades and Labor Council. Not that the meeting particularly wanted to do so, as for a long time it was silent on the subject, but it is no secret to say that the issue was forced by one of those present. The contention was that the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council has already made its pronouncement on the subject, and that it was unnecessary to go all over the ground again. But the resolutions on war problems passed at the recent session of the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress at Ottawa were before the meeting for consideration, and as conscription was included, it gave an opportunity to re-open the subject, which was taken advantage of. Therefore, it may be well to give some explanation of the attitude taken by the meeting when the resolution against conscription passed by the congress was endorsed. The opinion was recently expressed in these notes that, individually, members of the working class are not against conscription if such a measure is really necessary, and the meeting on Monday gave no reason to alter the opinion. The Edmonton Trades and Labor Council has already expressed itself against conscription unless production, wealth, and natural resources are also conscripted, and apparently there was no feeling or desire on the part of the meeting on Monday to pass another resolution directly against conscription without any proviso attached. It was, however, pointed out that the resolution forwarded from the congress executive was directed especially against the measure of conscription as proposed by the government. Therefore, as the government does not include the conscription of wealth and resources as desired by the Edmonton Council, they were perfectly consistent in supporting the resolution of congress. Accordingly this was done.

At the meeting a pertinent question was asked by a delegate: "What do you mean by conscription of wealth?" There was no satisfactory reply, and the question yet remains to be answered.

To appoint a committee from the Trades and Labor Council to meet and confer with the executive of the great War Veterans' Association on all matters likely to affect the interests of both, appears to be a move entirely in the right direction, for the reason that many subjects must come along where their interests are identical. The working classes of Western Canada at least, have done nobly

Couldn't Keep Back Tears

When the Nervous System Broke Down—Queer Feelings in Back of Head Caused Much Alarm.

Midland, Ont., May 26th.—Collapse or breakdown of the nervous system leaves one in a most pitiable condition. Strong, healthy-looking women, and men, too, will weep from helplessness and despair.

The case reported here was a most severe one, as is indicated by the hysterical condition, the pains in the back of the head and the futility of the many treatments used.

This is further evidence that the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a reasonable length of time will positively restore the most exhausted nervous system.

Mrs. S. Sharp, Midland, Ont., writes:

"About eleven years ago I had a serious nervous breakdown, and was so bad at times that I could not keep back the tears. I also had a queer feeling in the back of my head. Sometimes I seemed to be going backwards, I could not do any sewing, and finally could do no work at all. I tried other remedies and doctors' medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. Last Fall I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and had not taken very many until I found I was getting better. I kept on taking them, and am at present greatly improved. I am not able to do any work, and they have strengthened me splendidly. I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervous trouble of any kind." ing the way of voluntary enlistment, and for this reason alone the labor unions should be in a position to afford help to the returned men. On the other hand the unions should benefit by adding to their numbers, and, one other important point, removing the suspicion that organized labor is going to suffer the least disruption by the returned men in re-entering civil life. There is no need to disguise the fact that this element has been regarded with a certain amount of uneasiness in labor circles, it being thought that advantage might be taken of a large influx of men wanting employment to cheapen labor and upset conditions generally. But there is no need for this suspicion to exist if the two parties can get together on a working basis, especially if a policy of give and take is observed. The unions must be prepared to make allowances for the returned man, and in cases where he is taking up a new means of livelihood, arbitrary rules which bind other and more experienced employees, must be waived or lessened for their benefit. The whole matter is one of the greatest importance and required to be taken up with the utmost tact and consideration. It was remarked at the meeting on Monday night that the Labor Congress has been exceedingly slow in taking up the question of the returned soldier. There is no doubt in the least about this. Anyway Edmonton has now given the lead, and if the higher labor authorities are wise they will lose no time, but take up the subject in a similar manner and encourage others to do the same.

A RESOLUTION submitted by the Congress executive and bearing on the high cost of living was endorsed by the Trades and Labor Council. This gives the following as the most effective means of meeting the situation: Public ownership of all cold storage plants, abattoirs and canneries; elimination of the gambling in foodstuffs by speculators and others, particularly such as is prevalent on the food exchanges; that a food and fuel controller, or food and fuel commission, be appointed with power to fix prices based upon the cost of production, and facilitate the movement of food to that end, and who must be free from commercial or political affiliation to prevent the discharge of his duties in the interest of the people; appoint an advisory committee to assist the controller or commission, this committee to have fifty per cent. representatives nominated by organized labor; the government to pass an order-in-council, under the war measures act, giving any municipal authority the right to operate coal and wood yards and sell fuel retail to the citizens; nationalize the coal fields and all the railways; and extend the principle of nationalization in every direction to thoroughly bring the food resources of this country into the hands of the people and out of the hands of monopolists and speculators.

In connection with this increase in the cost of living and rise in prices, etc., it may not be generally known that municipalities have the power to take certain steps to prevent the matter directly by instituting inquiries. To this point it will be of interest to give a letter received by the council on Tuesday night. It was from T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, and referred to the order-in-council, enacted in November last, concerning the price of necessities of life, reading as follows:

"It is sometimes said that under Clause Six, as minister of labor, I have powers to conduct a more thorough investigation under oath, etc., than has a municipality. You will observe that under that section I may appoint an examiner, and in writing give him all the power and authority that I myself could exercise. That municipalities may have at their hand all the powers that I have under that section, I want to tell you that where a municipality complies with Clause Five, and by resolution asks me to appoint its solicitor or other official an examiner with all the powers mentioned in Clause Six naming the official so chosen, I shall be glad to clothe him therewith that the investigation may at once go forward substantially under local control, and at its expense."

MARGARET TURNBULL IS
IS REAL SCENERY
WITH SCENARIOS

Margaret Turnbull, who wrote the original story of "Her Better Self," a Famous-Players Paramount production starring Pauline Frederick, is one of the most brilliant young writers of America. Miss Turnbull was born in Glasgow on the banks of the Clyde river, Scotland, but came to America at an early age, living in New Jersey. She has written many well-known books and plays, but of late has turned, like so many other modern writers, to the field of motion picture scenarios. Some of her best known original scenarios are "The Bargain," "The Clue," "The Secret Sin," and "Stolen Goods." She has also written adaptations of many famous masterpieces from literature and the stage.

"The Girl Philippa."—Vitaphone.
"The Beast."—William Fox.

A screen version of "The Girl Philippa," Robert W. Chambers' story of the present war in eight reels is the big attraction at the Empress Theatre the first four days of next week. The Vitaphone Company has given the photoplay the benefit of an elaborate and intelligent production, and Anita Stewart, who has the title part, and other members of the cast keep the acting at a high level of merit. S. Rankin Drew, who adapted the story to the screen and directed its production, has surrounded the scenes with the correct atmosphere, and infused the players with the spirit and intent of the novelist. So well has "The Girl Philippa" been fashioned into a photoplay that it would be difficult to suggest how the picture could be improved. Chambers' novel was a masterpiece of a modern writer, and it has been improved again, if anything by the adaptation to the screen. Taken at its present valuation, the Chamber's work possesses an absorbing and skillfully constructed plot, variety of scene, speedy action, glimpses of the great war, and a worth-while love affair between a man and a maid who turns out to be a princess. One of the best moments in Anita Stewart's impersonation of Philippa is when she discovers the truth about her birth. Her assumption of her new character is charming. George Walsh and Anna Luther will be seen on Friday and Saturday in one of William Fox's latest releases, "The Beast," which should not be regarded as horrid as the name would imply. The work of the two stars will be found to be good and consistent; they are surrounded by an excellent company, and the settings and atmospheres are of great assistance.

Hurrah! How's This
Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn you invite lockjaw or blood poisoning, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a drug called freestone can be obtained at little cost from the drug store, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus. You simply apply a few drops of freestone on the tender, aching corn, and soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain. If your wife wears high heels she will be glad to know of this.

DUTCH MINERS TO STRIKE
LONDON, June 22.—A dispatch from Amsterdam says that 90 per cent of the Dutch miners of Limburg (a province of Southeastern Holland) are on strike for a minimum wage and an eight hour day. Many Belgian inter-mined soldiers who have been working the mines joined the strike which involved about 70,000 men. The situation is considered serious. The Holland coal supply is largely dependent upon the output of the Dutch mines.

AUTO CLUBS HELP THE GOOD ROADS CAUSE

Fort Sask. Paper Says Change In System Of Making And Main- taining Roads Needed.

The following from the Fort Saskatchewan Conservator will be interesting as indicating the realization of good results which will follow the establishment of auto clubs throughout the province:

We note that an Auto Club has been organized in Vegreville and has taken for its slogan, "Good Roads." There are enough automobile owners in Fort Saskatchewan to warrant the formation of an Auto Club here. And the roads have up to the present been sufficiently bad to justify the adoption of a similar slogan. As the Vegreville Observer very truly points out, good roads are a prime necessity for auto-ists, but they are equally necessary for those who use horses and wagons. The farmers of this and every district must use horses and wagons for hauling grain and produce to market. The better roads, the less wear and tear, and the quicker the work is done. It would certainly be a fine thing for two and country if the roads were permanently improved. If an Auto Club would help any let us by all means have one. But after all the only method by which any real progress in building roads that will last can be brought

STANDARDIZATION TIRE EQUIPMENT

Operators of big auto truck fleets have come to realize the advantages of standardization of equipment. It means better service, speedier repairs and practically constant movement of trucks. But standardization is very seldom decided upon before a full investigation has been made of the various makes and types of equipment.

Little over a year ago, the Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia, with standardization in view, put a Firestone Giant tire on one of their four hundred odd trucks. Its performance led to a recent announcement of the company that hereafter all of its heavy trucks will be equipped exclusively with Firestone Giants.

Firestone Giants are the largest single tread truck tires manufactured. They are constructed only by the Firestone company and were designed and originated by its experts. They are built in various sizes, the largest being 32x14 and weighing 325 pounds. About is by an entire change in the present system. The building, care and maintenance of roads should be all placed directly in the hands of a department of the Government. Experienced road makers would speedily be found or developed, and if the roads were not kept up to the mark, one would always know where to look in order to have them put in proper shape. Under a properly organized department, similar to the Department of Telephones, say, construction and repairing of roads would soon become regular and efficient. Uniform roads would be found everywhere, and there would be much less waste of time and money than at present exists.

NUOLINE A NEW GAS SUBSTITUTE

Test Made on 415-mile Run — 11
Miles Per Gallon—Can Sell
For 10c Per Gallon

New York.—Experiments are being made at the West Side Y.M.C.A. Automobile school, with a new fuel called Nuoline, put forth as a substitute to sell at 10 cents a gallon. Louis Clement, the inventor, a Danish chemist, says the ingredients are cheap and that two-thirds of the liquid is water. Tests of the liquid, which is a milky white, have shown it is an able substitute for gasoline. A road test of 415 miles has just been concluded, the car having been run to Albany on the east side of the Hudson and then to Schenectady and Utica, returning on the west side of the river via Newburgh and the Port Lee ferry. The average was 11 miles per gallon.

Response to the accelerator with Nuoline was much better than with gasoline. There was none of the gasoline fumes from the exhaust, but a faint odor of camphor, which was explained to be coal camphor from one of the ingredients used in the manufacture of the fuel.

A company is being organized to manufacture Nuoline commercially.

TRAIL BLAZER SETS NEW MARK WITH DISTILLATE

Saxon Boundary Car Averages 37
Miles to Gallon on Low
Grade Fuel

Not content with having averaged 26 miles to the gallon of gasoline in the first half of its trip around the rim of the country, the Saxon roadster trail blazer for the National Boundary Highway switched to a diet of distillate on the coast and romped away with a 450-mile trip on an average of 37 miles to every gallon used of this low grade fuel.

This record was established between Los Angeles and San Francisco. The trail blazer experienced no difficulty with the low grade fuel, operating perfectly except at starting when gasoline had to be used to prime the motor. This trouble, however, is encountered by all cars which use the distillate and in fact there are only a few automobiles that have been able to operate successfully on the fuel and these have been equipped with special carburetors.

Saxon roadster distributed the distillate through its own carburetor without any special adjustment being necessary. When the trail blazer reached San Francisco its driver learned that several other Saxon roadsters on the coast are using distillate regularly. This fuel, which is only about one step removed from kerosene, sells for one-half the price of gasoline and it is very popular with Saxon roadster owners in California. Some tests recently conducted there with a roadster model showed a rate of 31 miles to the gallon.

From Frisco the boundary car has started for the Canadian border line, and a week or so more will see it turning eastward along the border, headed on its return journey.

No matter what make of car you have, you should wear a

TESTING TIME

¶ This is undoubtedly a testing time in many ways.

¶ Probably last year you experimented with cheap tires. Then, as now, the sure policy for the auto owner is to provide against trouble by accepting no less value, at any price, than is offered in Dunlop "Traction Tread," Dunlop "Special," and Dunlop "Plain."

MAKERS STAND BEHIND TIRES

Diamond Tire Man Expresses His Opinion on Guarantee
Question

When asked if, in his opinion, tires would always be guaranteed, Mr. N. E. Oliver, of New York City, sales manager of Diamond Tires, said, "Yes, in my opinion, good tires will always be guaranteed."

Today, more than ever before, reputable manufacturers are standing back of the tires they make. It is impossible for any tire company to dodge responsibility for the service records of its tires, and that is the last thing that the Diamond Rubber Company wants to do.

But there will probably always be a difference in the form of tire guarantee as issued by different companies. Some companies give written guarantees, but you can boil the whole thing down to one question. Does the maker intend to stand by his product and willingly offer to make good any possible deficiencies? And even if they intend to make good, do their resources permit a full, fair and unhesitating adjustment?

BUILDING BRUCE-VIKING ROAD

Morrison & McKay, the road contractors, building the automobile road from Viking to Bruce, are making good headway. They have finished about six miles of road, and those who know say it is nice work. They expect to finish the grade about July 1st. This stretch of road will be part of a main trunk road from Viking to Edmonton, the road having been finished from Edmonton to Tofted. From Tofted it will be built east to Ryley, then to Holden and connect with the Viking line at Bruce. This scheme has been outlined by Hon. Chas. Stewart, minister of public works, and is part of a program to make main line roads all over the province.—Viking News.

Rapidly Increasing Number of Auto Owners Among Farmers

The number of autos owned by farmers in northern Alberta is increasing all the time and at a very rapid rate. For instance, on a recent trip in the Nama district a Bulletin reporter obtained the following list of auto owners who travel the Nama road to Edmonton, all of whom are naturally interested vitally in the maintenance of that piece of highway:

Today's Anniversaries

On June 23, in the year 303, St. Alban, the first martyr for Christianity in England, was beheaded at Verulam, in Hertfordshire. Nearly five hundred years later his memory was honored by Otto, king of the Moravians, who built a stately monastery over his grave, whence the town of St. Alban's receives its name. A great hurricane swept over Illinois on June 23, 1854, wiping out the town of Manteno and its environs. It killed many persons and destroyed houses and crops.—Raverting back a few hundred years, it was on June 23, 1683, that William Penn made his famous treaty with the Indians.

"CUT A WIDE SWATH"
HAMILTON, Ont., June 22.—"Capt. Percy do Willoughby," the young English officer who cut such a wide swath in New York, appeared in police court here this morning on a nominal charge of vagrancy. He is being held pending the arrival from Ottawa of Dominion secret service men. The authorities say he will likely be taken back to England to face charges of passing worthless cheques.

Today We Celebrate

FOUNDING OF INDIAN EMPIRE

One hundred and sixty years ago today the foundation was laid for British rule in India and for the bringing of light to that darkened empire. On June 23, 1557, a little band of brave Englishmen, at whose head was Robert Clive, a young clerk of the East India Company, early in the morning prepared for what seemed to be a hopeless battle against overwhelming odds on the field of Plassey. In 1756 Calcutta had been captured by Surajud Dowla, who imprisoned over one hundred Englishmen in the "Black Hole," suffocating nearly every one of them. Clive was at Madras at the time this outrage was perpetrated and resolved to avenge his heroic countrymen. As soon as he heard of the crime he began to gather about him a small force, and when all his preparations had been made sailed from Madras and shortly afterwards landed with his expedition near Calcutta. To most of Clive's followers their task appeared hopeless. When the two armies faced each other on the field of Plassey the odds again Clive were so enormous that on the very eve of battle a council of war advised a retreat. Surajud Dowla commanded an army of fifty thousand infantry, fifteen thousand cavalry and more than fifty cannon, while the British force under Clive numbered barely three thousand men in all, two-thirds of them being Sepoys. This time the god-battles decided not to fight on the side of the heaviest artillery. The battle which now took place was short, sharp and decisive. Surajud Dowla's force of sixty-five thousand was soon thrown in confusion by a few British guns and by British determination and valor. The Mohomedans broke in headlong rout before the repeated charges of the Englishmen. Thus Clive wrought vengeance for the crime of the "Black Hole of Calcutta." But the victory was only a trifle in comparison with the further results of the battle of Plassey. England's reward for the bravery of her soldier was the opening of a wonderful career of conquest which added her possessions the enormously rich Indian peninsula from Ceylon to the Himalayas. The King of England as Emperor of India rules over an empire thirty times larger than his native realm, abounding in untold treasure and teeming with a population of 250,000,000 human beings.

Studebaker

The Reasons for Studebaker's Leadership

STUDEBAKER is supreme in Canada because Studebaker Cars stand up and give the service.

The Series 18 Studebakers are even better than the Series 17.

They are maintaining the leadership the Series 17 established throughout the Dominion.

Because they embody ninety distinct improvements in mechanical construction, convenience and comfort over the Series 17.

Because they offer all the improvements, all the refinements suggested by four years' close study of the performance of 800,000 Studebaker Cars in actual service in every part of the world.

In them Studebaker gives you the QUALITY that stands up and gives service under the hardest tests on Canadian roads.

In them the many economies made possible by vast resources, the savings obtained through the development of steadily improved manufacturing methods and the installation of the latest and best labor saving machinery are turned to your advantage.

That is why Studebaker is able to offer you so good a car at so low a price.

That is why the Studebaker is a most economical car to buy.

It is economical to operate because Studebaker's "made-in-Canada" quality reduces "upkeep" to its lowest possible terms.

It is economical to drive because of great gasoline economy in ratio to power, because of great tire economy in ratio to weight and carrying capacity—Studebaker owners frequently get from 8,000 to 10,000 miles on a single set of tires.

It is economical to own, because it brings a very high second-hand value in case of re-sale or trade-in.

For these reasons you owe it to yourself to investigate the Canadian-built Studebaker before you buy a car.

Let us give you a Studebaker demonstration today.

News of the Boys' Clubs Of the City Churches

IS CHEWING GUM BENEFICIAL TO ATHLETES?

Many boys and athletes chew gum without realizing or even caring what benefit or harm chewing gum has in store for them. It is generally conceded that the harmful and the school teachers are all agreed that the reason for being so except that it looks bad. Chewing gum has as far as teeth are concerned only good effects for when chewing gum the athlete or whoever he may be, is continually cleaning the teeth. The teeth, like other parts of the body, must be exercised in order to keep in the pink of condition and the action of chewing gum most assuredly affords the athlete as long as the gum contains no grit in order to wear the teeth and injure the gums, only benefit results are obtained in connection with the teeth.

The therapeutic action of chewing gum stimulates a flow of saliva. Athletes at work find their mouth and throat becoming dry due to an over action of the skin, consequently the successive flow of saliva keeps the throat and mouth moist and they are thus enabled to carry on more strenuous and for a longer space of time their exhausting work.

Chewing gum has a physiological effect on the athlete, thus helping him to concentrate his full mind on the effort he is trying to put forth. In the act of chewing gum the athlete breathes through his nostrils more so than otherwise, which has a greater tendency to cause more lung expansion, hence greater effort will ensue.

While we recommend chewing gum in the midst of playing a game, we as heartily condemn the habit of chewing gum incessantly, not only because it is disgusting, but for scientific reasons. When chewing gum as a habit the person involved wastes a great deal of saliva and when mealtime comes there is not sufficient saliva to mingle with the food and cause complete digestion. So that stomach trouble and indigestion are undeniably results of this habit if continued.

R. FRASER.

WORKING ON EXAMS.

During the past week the attention of the boys from different churches has been concentrated on the examinations, which are being held in the public schools, so that there has been little activity elsewhere.

Only one game was played in the baseball league, and only one club was able to muster any news for the editor of this department. However, most of the boys will soon be free for the holidays and we expect a full budget of news for next week.

AT SUMMER SCHOOL.

Several of the church clubs are sending representatives to the summer school to be held at Sylvan Lake from July 6th to 14th. Any club wishing further information regard-

THE H. J. K. CLUB.

We read with great interest the visit of the editor and chief to the proposed swimming hole, and coupled with the appeal made on its behalf by Mr. Marks at the annual banquet of the Y.M.C.A. and the consideration of the city council. We are very hopeful that before many moons we shall have fulfilled that long-felt want of some nice cool place to take a dip "when the tail of the long day is over."

During those last day of school when some extra study is so necessary, our ball team has not had as many "work outs" as it should, but the boys are all in fine shape, and displayed their fitness against the Norwood team on Friday, the 25th, when the protested game in the first of the league was played off, our boys laid the others well at bay until about "the sixth innings," when suddenly some magic or other power favored the visitors and at the finish they held a slender margin on which will be a difficult task for them to accomplish at any future time.

Let any of our members do not let flow the results of the league, we will like to state that in the three games already played we have only lost one. With the help of all our fellows we mean to hold that average.

Little Stories of Big Men

PRINCE OF WALES' BIRTHDAY. The war has stripped European royalty of much of the pomp and circumstance which formerly surrounded it, and the nations fighting the battles are finding out what stuff their rulers are made of. Some of the kings and princes have shown themselves to be real men, and none was shown more manly qualities than the Prince of Wales, who today celebrates his twenty-third birthday. With true Anglo-Saxon bravery he has faced shot and shell on the front in France and is conspicuously, though not ostentatiously, doing his bit. The prince's English titles are: Prince Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, Earl of Chester, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, Baron Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, Great Steward of Scotland and Earl of Inverness. There is none of these titles to which greater historic interest attaches than that of Earl of Chester, which is a Welsh title conferred upon the prince only a few years ago. In the time of William the Conqueror that title was held by Hugh "Lupus," who, in addition to his earldom, had 124 lordships in sixteen other counties. To Hugh succeeded his son Richard, who perished with the two sons of Henry I. when the White ship foundered in the Channel. Richard was in turn followed in the earldom by the kindred line of Domestiches, four of whom held semi-royal sway in Chester, until, on the death of the last of the line without issue, his earldom passed to Henry III's heir, Edward, to remain an appendage of the eldest sons of the kings of England.

WHY DREAD OLD AGE?

It should be the pleasantest time of life and if coupled with good health it is. Many of our most remarkable men and women have won fame and prominence after reaching the sixties, and in lots of cases they have not been robust in youth.

The secret of health in old age is the prevention of bowel disorder. Constipation is the foe to be dreaded. Care in diet is necessary, also the avoidance of harsh cathartics, which only aggravate the trouble.

The ideal laxative for aged people is Chamberlain's Tablets

On account of their mild and gentle action, you hardly realize that a medicine has been taken. Yet the effect is none the less certain, and the tonic properties of these Tablets so build up and strengthen the digestive system that the health is greatly benefited. Try a bottle today.
